

Geico and NCL join CAIF

By: Staff Writer, Property Casualty 360

Geico and the National Consumers League (NCL) have joined the board of directors of the Coalition Against Insurance Fraud. The Coalition's membership now stands at 90 members.

Geico is America's third largest private-passenger auto insurer. Geico has 10 million policyholders and insures more than 16 million vehicles.

Founded in 1899, NCL is the nation's oldest consumer organization. NCL is a private, nonprofit advocacy group representing consumers on marketplace and workplace issues. NCL provides government, businesses and other organizations with the consumer's perspective on diverse issues.

The Coalition also welcomed six other organizations recently into non-board membership: First Acceptance Corp., Healthcare Insight, Property Casualty Insurers Assoc. of America, SAS Institute, Thomson Reuters and the Virginia State Police.

Founded in 1993, the Coalition Against Insurance Fraud is a nonprofit alliance of insurers, consumer groups and state agencies combating all forms of insurance fraud through legislation, public outreach and advocacy.

The Coalition also welcomed six other organizations recently into non-board membership: First Acceptance Corp., Healthcare Insight, Property Casualty Insurers Assoc. of America, SAS Institute, Thomson Reuters and the Virginia State Police.

Coalition Against Insurance Fraud