Advice to Employees

- In you have questions about potential remote site work injury, contact your employer or insurer promptly.
- Be 100% honest in reporting all facts and information so your injury claim may be assessed properly.
- Seek treatment if needed, but be wary of scams... especially those which may involve telemedicine and requests for credit card information.

Employers and Insurers

- Tell employees how to report claims in a COVID-19 environment.
- Communicate and educate employees to not commit fraud.
- Keep your SIU team informed with the latest anti-fraud information.
- Watch for suspicious injury claims - while ensuring all claims are fairly reviewed despite the crisis.

---

Remote

Global work from home orders are redefining what a work injury may mean. What may be new?

Fraud Investigations

- Verify injuries, conduct remote interviews and provide information for reputable treatment.

Claims

- Stop the Fraud

- Quarantine Injury Claims

- Are work from home injuries covered?

- Should I use telemedicine?

- Are all insurers treating home injuries the same?

- Is all or some of my home considered my “workplace”?

Treatment Options

- Stop the Fraud

- COVID-19 is teaching us to work better together.

- Report your injury promptly and truthfully.

- Employers and insurers need to share information with employees on what is covered and how to report a claim.

Tell employees how to report claims in a COVID-19 environment.

- Communicate and educate employees to not commit fraud.

- Keep your SIU team informed with the latest anti-fraud information.

- Watch for suspicious injury claims - while ensuring all claims are fairly reviewed despite the crisis.

Report all suspected insurance fraud to your state department of insurance or at: